Simply said...It's the right choice. You don't throw your waste oil into a landfill, so why would you throw your used oil filters there. Eliminate your company's liability while protecting the environment.

AFTER

BEFORE

According to the EPA's cradle-to-grave laws, you as the generator are responsible for all your waste until terminated and recycled at a permitted facility. This liability cannot be transferred to any transporter, insurance company, collector, processor, or anyone else. Your only release is the termination of the waste itself. With Enviro Waste your used oil filters are processed at our permitted facility, where we remove the waste oil and the metal is sent out to a recycler.
